

Herbert Rubin was officially appointed to the Planning and Zoning Commission at Monday night's City Council meeting.

The appointment, which came following a controversy over the ability of a member of the council to withdraw an appointment to a commission and choose a replacement without the Council's vote.

Mayor Richard O. Clark challenged this position in court in an attempt to appoint Rubin in place of Commissioner William Johnson. Although the court ruled against Clark, Rubin was appointed to the Commission because the addition of Councilman Patrick Griffin and Vice-Mayor Michael Gleason made a majority of the Council voting Rubin onto the Commission.

In another matter before the Council, the question of conflict of interest arose over the recently hired consultant on the suit brought against the City Council by a group of Albany citizens concerning the sale of a portion of land on Albany Hill owned by Councilman Hubert Call.

Councilman Griffin questioned City Attorney Lawrence Saler on the fact that the consultant, Robert Anderson, the former Berkeley City Attorney now in private practice, is also the Associate Council defender of the City.

It was suggested by Councilman Griffin that the position of consultant was expected to give an objective overview of the case and that he believed an Associate Council could not give this overview.

City Attorney Saler said he did not feel this was a conflict of interest.

It was also brought up that Anderson is receiving a salary of $65 per hour for an undetermined time span.

When questioned, City Administrator James Turner could not give an estimation on the amount of time it would take Anderson to perform his duties, but said he would confer with Anderson to find out the time needed.

In other actions by the Council, a resolution was unanimously passed to endorse the flouridation of the water supply of the East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD).

Councilman Griffin pointed out that this resolution did not mean that flouridation would begin, only that it may help to get the question on the November ballot for the voters to decide.

The City Councilmen were invited to a demonstration of motorcycle racing at Golden Gate Fields to be shown, in the opinion of the management of the race track, that cycle racing can be kept quiet so as not to bother local residents.

A hearing on the issue of granting a permit for motorcycle racing at Golden Gate Fields had been denied last week after a public hearing had shown that public sentiment was adamantly against it.

The Council passed the motion to hold the demonstration according to Councilman Gleason because, "They should be offered the chance to show their evidence that they really can keep the noise level down."

Councilman Clark urged that if the motorcycle races were allowed to be held that the fee to the city should be raised from the current figure of $1000 to $4000.

A resolution was unanimously passed declaring noxious or dangerous weeds growing upon the streets, sidewalks and private property to be a public nuisance, this would include fire hazards, poison oak, etc.

The passage of this resolution left it open to the city to destroy these weeds. The Council also passed a motion to adopt the suggestion of City Administrator Turner that all owners of property that are deemed to have weeds of this nature be notified by mail that they either have to destroy the weeds themselves or the City will do it.

In the past notices have simply been left on the property. Resolutions accepting easements for sewer line purposes from Stephens Enterprises and Hubert F. Call and Ruth L. Call and authorizing the mayor to accept and consent to such easements were unanimously passed by the council.

Resolutions of commendation were given both to Mr. James Scoggin for his services as a member of the Civil Service Board and to Mr. William Johnson of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Under Good of the City Dario Meniketti requested that all citizens give unused books to the Friends of the Library for a book sale in mid-July Meniketti pointed out that tight Library budget has been expanded by the organization's help and it was hoped that this book sale would be as successful as past ones.

The meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

City Plans House To House Survey

Overloading of sanitary sewers in Albany has caused serious problems in recent years resulting in the back-up and overflow of certain of the City sewers during the wet weather season, flooding the streets, gutters and residential areas.

City officials, realizing the urgency of the problem in 1969, contracted with a consulting engineering firm to make a comprehensive study of the City's wastewater collection system and to offer recommendations for corrective measures.

It was determined that the most significant problems are associated with an excess amount of storm water entering the sanitary sewer system through "illicit" or direct roof and yard connections from homes and business establishments. This excess volume of water entering the system causes the sewers to overflow, noticeably at certain manholes. This overflow waste, containing raw sewage finds its way via gutters, catch basins and storm drains into creeks, and ultimately San Francisco Bay.

A program is being implemented to systematically correct the existing problems in an orderly and economical manner in order to safeguard the public health, welfare and safety as well as the environment itself. This program will affect everyone in the community, either directly or indirectly, and the cooperation of each home or business owner will be necessary.

The first step in the program is the elimination of direct roof and yard connections or leaders to the sewer system. Each property owner can greatly assist in this phase. Sometime in the near future the City plans a house to house survey to determine where there are such existing adverse conditions, and how best to correct them. Before this inspection is made, however, there will be further communications either through the mail or through the news media.

The City needs the cooperation and involvement of all citizens to make the plan a success. Their acceptance of such a program and its implementation will result in an adequate sewage collection system and a healthier environment for all.

AHS Seniors Plan All Night Bash

Graduating seniors and their guests will be partying all night at Holiday House in Hayward on June 14.

Following the ceremonies at 8 p.m., graduates will board buses and be transported to what promises to be a once in a lifetime experience.

"Elvis Duck" and "Synergy" are the featured music makers, two groups who have played together often and draw big crowds wherever they go.

A buffet dinner, a chuck wagon breakfast and all the free coke you can drink are graciously and elegantly provided by Holiday House. Also, connected to Holiday House is a forty lane bowling alley and that's free all night long.

If gambling is your thing, a casino, complete with "funny money," is a featured attraction.

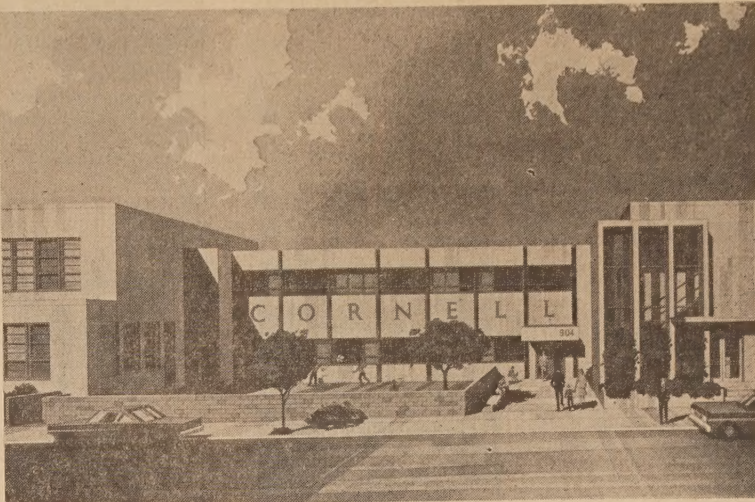

Cards, dice and a wheel of fortune will tempt even the most timid.

Sign ups are still in progress until June 7. Checks made payable to Albany High Senior Parents (in the amount of $20) can be sent to Mrs. Howard Hein at 961 Curtis St., Albany 94706.

THE ALBANY UNIFIED School District's Board of Education has approved preliminary plans for a two story administration-3 classroom addition to Cornell School, scheduled for completion in September of 1975. Cornell School, formerly housed kindergarten through the seventh grade. The unsafe auditorium and two story west classroom wing will be demolished at the same time the addition is built and the school will then house kindergarten through the fifth grade plus the District's administration offices. The new Marin Elementary School, presently under construction, is scheduled for completion in December of this year and will also house kindergarten through the fifth grade.

Preliminary General Plan

The Albany Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, June 18 at 8:00 p.m. in City Hall to review and consider for adoption the Preliminary General Plan. This plan, produced by DUNCAN & JONES, an urban and environmental planning consulting firm, in Berkeley, is the product of a year-long general plan revision program. The Plan incorporates several new elements required by state law, including Seismic Safety, Safety, Noise, and Scenic Highways and also has plans for bikeways in its revised circulation element.

The Planning group has evaluated the existing pattern of development in Albany, as well as emerging trends in land use, transportation, circulation, population and environmental characteristics. Previously adopted and in-process plans and policies were reviewed, including the General Plan adopted in 1966, the Albany Isles Plan, policies and review work conducted by the Planning and Zoning Commission, as well as the work of other agencies including ABAG, BCDC, MTC and the California Department of Transportation (CalTrans). The Citizens Advisory Committee provided input in terms of goals for the community.

The basic approach of the Plan is to preserve the desirable characteristics of existing development, particularly in residential land commercial areas, while ensuring that any changes in development which occur will improve the quality of the impact on residential areas, and will improve the quality of the commercial environment on Solano Avenue and San Pablo Avenue. A housing maintenance and conservation program is recommended, with new higher density residential development allowed only in areas where such development already exists, where older housing can be appropriately be replaced by newer units, or in areas with access to commercial facilities and major streets.

It is recommended in the Preliminary General Plan that commercial development continue to be concentrated on Solano and San Pablo Avenues. The Plan recommends that future public actions enhance the character of San Pablo Avenue as a highway-oriented commercial area, and that a street improvement program be initiated to increase traffic safety, and improve the commercial environment of the street. The recommendations suggest that Solano Avenue will remain a general commercial area, with residential uses developed in certain sections along the avenue.

The Plan recommends a preservation of the scenic value of the shoreline, as well as the protection and improvement of Cerrito Creek and Codornices Creek, which respectively form the north and south borders of the city. Seismic and geologic hazard areas are identified in the city, with recommendations that particular studies be conducted if development is proposed in areas identified as susceptible to such hazards.

In order to implement the Plan, a Design Review Process is suggested, as well as the appointment of a Community Development Assistant to the Administrative Officer, who will be responsible for establishing a housing maintenance program, for preparing necessary ordinances and zoning amendments to carry out the recommendations of the General Plan, and to provide technical assistance to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The Planning Commission will review the plan at the public hearing on June 18, and will hold additional hearings as necessary. The Preliminary General Plan will then be submitted to the City Council, who will also hold public hearings for the purpose of considering adoption of the Plan.

"We do," replied the parson, "but first we get in touch with their relatives."

When it comes to protecting our nation's wildlife, the conservationist has an unusual partner—the hunter. The dedicated sportsman knows that unless game is protected (via regulated hunting season, bag limits), there will be no more hunting. But the biologist charged with wildlife management also knows that many types of animal must be hunted to insure healthy, numerous herds. Why? The people from Remington Arms tell us that when abundant animals aren't hunted, they become too numerous to be supported by their habitat. The result? Mass starvation, weakened survivors.

LAW IN ACTION

UNPAID TRAFFIC TAGS

If you forget to pay a traffic tag or to go to court, the police will get a warrant out for your arrest. For moving violations, a record of your address and driver's license number makes it likely that when you have to renew your license the warrant will appear.

On parking violations the registered car owner is responsible. Lending your car to an irresponsible driver will mean that the tags will be your responsibility. A notice of warrant will be sent to your last registered address.

Most police departments are part of an area-wide or state-wide information network. The records of warrants are fed into computers and any time a person comes in contact with the police, the warrant check may be made. A traffic stop, a crime, a search on entering a government building, or any police investigation that may involve the person, may call for a warrant check.

Larry Late was riding around in a car which matched the description of a car used in a crime. The police stopped him. Larry was cleared of any involvement in the crime, but not until a warrant check was made. It showed he owed $45 in traffic tickets. Larry didn't have the bail and he was taken to the police station. They searched him and found a small quantity of marijuana.

Larry now had to face narcotics charges. Ordinarily, when a person is stopped for an investigation, the police only have a right to make a "pat search" for weapons, if the circumstances justify this.

When a stop is made for a minor traffic offense, there is no right to make any kind of search if the person is willing to sign a promise to appear on a citation. However, other grounds for a search can exist, such as contraband in "plain view."

But if there is a warrant outstanding and bail can't be immediately posted, the police have a right to "book" the person, permitting a search just as any "arrest and booking" into the jail.

WHY NUCLEAR POWER IS THE SOLUTION TO THE ENERGY PROBLEM.

The electric energy problem here in California is simply a matter of oil and natural gas shortages. The problem is going to plague us for some time to come, unless other forms of energy are used. The solution is to use energy wisely and to build more nuclear power plants. Nuclear plants are safe. They are practical. They are economical. They are environmentally clean. But they take time to build—about ten years.

There's no mystery about nuclear power plants. There are 44 operating in the United States; more than that among other nations of the world. There are more than 100 nuclear-powered ships in the U.S. Navy; even more in other fleets. The nuclear industry has hundreds of reactor years of successful operating experience. The technology is proven.

Some people have questions about nuclear power. Some people give incorrect answers to those questions.

We at PG&E have had long experience with nuclear plants. We believe firmly in them. So do other utilities, world-wide, both government-owned and investor-owned. And so does the overwhelming majority of the scientific community.

Brownouts and blackouts can happen here.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE

At present most of PG&E's steam-electric power plants burn scarce and very expensive low-sulfur oil to generate electricity. We will have to buy about 20 million barrels this year and 35 million next year to meet our customers' electric energy needs. Our two-unit Diablo Canyon Nuclear Power Plant, now under construction in San Luis Obispo County, will displace a need for an additional 24 million barrels of oil every year in the future.

Delays in construction schedules of these and other nuclear units—delays, for a variety of reasons, over which utilities generally have little control—have had much to do with bringing about today's electric energy problems in California.

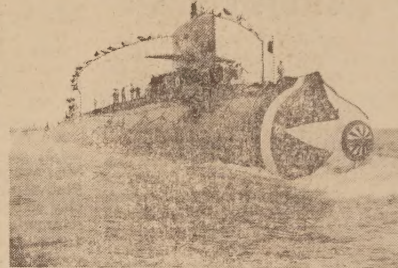

While nuclear power plants cannot solve the problem immediately, they can in time. As more come into service, they will free up large amounts of oil, significantly alleviating the aggravating long-range fuel shortage—gasoline and all.

NUCLEAR POWER AND SAFETY

The safety record of commercial nuclear power plants is unmatched in industrial history. Safety systems and their back-up systems function efficiently. There have been no nuclear-caused deaths. Not even a significant injury. (For comparison, about 54,000 Americans are killed every year in auto accidents; 3,000 die choking on food; 160 are killed by lightning.)

Actually, fissionable nuclear fuel for power plants is very dilute—so dilute that it's impossible to create an atomic explosion in a nuclear reactor.

With all the safeguards that are built into each nuclear power plant, the chance of a major accident is about one in a million.

Thousands of men work and live safely on nuclear-powered subs.

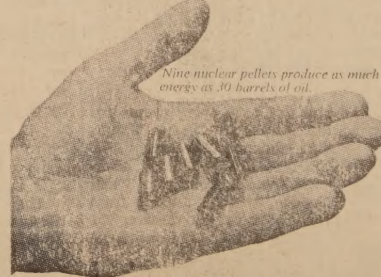

NUCLEAR WASTE. WHAT HAPPENS TO IT?

When nuclear fuel is used, nuclear waste is created. But more than 95 per cent of the original fuel is recycled for re-use. The remaining waste is small—so small that such waste from a large nuclear unit operating for 30 years could be contained in a space no larger than a two-car garage. The waste is radioactive; but is treated as such. Very carefully. Safety first.

Used fuel is sealed in heavily-shielded, leak-tight casks and shipped to a facility which specializes in nuclear fuel reprocessing. Every safety precaution is taken to insure that no leakage occurs. Shipping and handling are carried out under strict regulations of the AEC and the U.S. Department of Transportation. After processing, the residual waste will be solidified and placed in secure, long-term storage under rigid government control.

NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS AND MARINE LIFE

Some people have voiced concern because some power plants discharge warm water back into natural water bodies. These power plants—whether nuclear or fossil-fueled—use cooling water in steam condensers. In a nuclear plant the cooling water is only about 19° warmer when returned to its source, and otherwise is harmless. Where the water source is large enough and cold enough to receive and assimilate it, like the Pacific Ocean, it has no significant adverse effect on marine life. The only appreciable change is that in the immediate water discharge area the balance between warm water species and cold water species of marine life may shift in favor of those liking warmer water. In fact, after 24 years of scientific study and many more years of operating experience, it is clearly established that marine life near PG&E power plants tends to be more plentiful than it was originally.

Nine nuclear pellets produce as much energy as 30 barrels of oil.

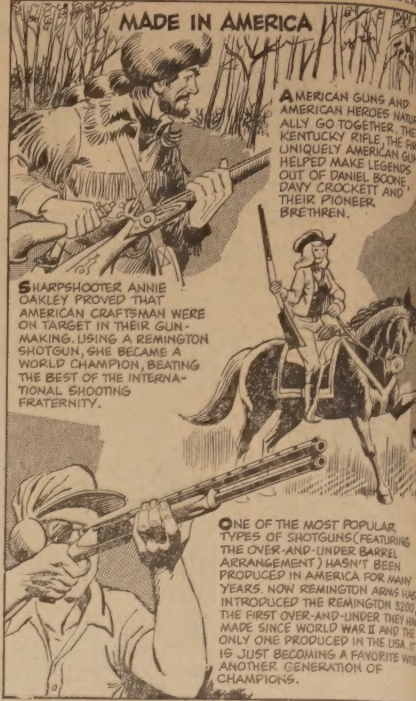

NUCLEAR POWER—CLEAN, ECONOMICAL

For both environmental and economic reasons, nuclear power is the solution to the electrical energy problem.

Most hydroelectric power resources are already developed. Fossil-fueled steam electric plants consume scarce and increasingly costly oil and natural gas. Barring technological breakthroughs, geothermal energy can meet only a small part of future power needs. Fusion power is decades away. And other possible sources of energy, such as solar, tidal and wind power, are in experimental stages of development, and the latter two may never become practical for large-scale use. Coal can supply some help in California over the short run. But nuclear energy is the power source which has arrived.

Nuclear power is economical. For example, the electricity produced at PG&E's Humboldt Bay Nuclear Power Plant for $2.00 would cost $17.20 at a plant burning low-sulfur oil, at today's fuel prices.

Moreover, nuclear power generation is clean. Unlike burned fuels, it releases no combustion products into the environment.

NUCLEAR POWER AND INSURANCE

Some people say that private insurance companies won't cover a nuclear power plant. That's false. Private companies provide $110 million worth of liability insurance for each nuclear power reactor location. There have been no claims against nuclear power reactors. In fact, the insurance companies have been refunding part of the premiums paid by the utilities.

In addition, utilities pay the federal government for indemnity insurance coverage of $450 million for each reactor location.

The federal indemnity program was created by Congress in 1957 (Price-Anderson Act) to help encourage development of a nuclear power industry in the U.S. It has been good business for the taxpayers. And it gives the public greater protection than separate homeowner insurance policies could provide. That's one of the reasons why your homeowner policies have a nuclear exclusion clause.

The government has collected millions in indemnity payments from utilities—about $90,000 a year per large reactor—and has never paid out one cent. No claim has ever been filed.

NUCLEAR POWER AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST

One of the big PG&E nuclear units at Diablo Canyon is planned for service next year, and the other unit in 1976. But it will take about ten years to build additional nuclear capacity—including the time it takes to find and acquire suitable sites and obtain clearances and approvals from more than 30 governmental and public agencies.

Every year of delay exposes all of us to shortages and higher rates, and further drains our diminishing fossil fuel resources.

The energy problem simply must be solved, and nuclear power will go a long way toward solving it. Electrical energy is essential to everybody, and especially to the young people who will be forming families and needing jobs. We don't intend to relax in our efforts to provide adequate and reliable service for all our customers in the future, just as we have provided in the past. You can help now by conserving energy at home and on the job.

If you or anyone you know would like more information on nuclear power, PG&E will be pleased to provide it. Just write: PG&E Nuclear Information, 77 Beale Street, San Francisco, California 94106.

For A Succulent Stuffing

Fresh from harvest and delectably ripe, cranberries are bountifully back to bring delight to fall and holiday menus. At their peak of perfection, it's a good idea to buy all you need now and freeze some for your holiday cooking ahead. Cranberries are a snap to freeze and keep. Just pop unopened boxes into your freezer. When ready to use, simply rinse, drain and use as your recipe directs.

To perk up an every day menu, or to serve traditional stuffing in a very festive way, this Cranberry Bread stuffing can be baked either in a casserole or loaf pan. Those ravishing red cranberries add color and flavor and fabulous flavor.

 - 1/2 cup butter, melted
 - 3 eggs, well beaten
 - 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed chicken broth

- 1 cup Ocean Spray fresh cranberries, halved, rinsed and drained
- 1/2 cup pitted chopped prunes
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion (1 medium)

AGNA GANONG and Judie Sugawara told of their experience at the May Statewide Conference of California Junior State in Fresno at yesterday's meeting of Albany Rotary club.

COMPLETION TARGET dates have been announced for the addition to Cornell school and the new Albany Middle school. By September, 1975, Cornell's three classrooms and two story administration section will be completed. By December, 1975, 540 sixth through eighth graders will begin attending the new Middle School on a 3 1/2-acre site at Buchanan and Jackson streets.

JOE AND JOYCE POPE of Pleasant Hill, who formerly lived in the 700 block of Cornell, have announced the arrival of their third child, Joseph Christopher Pope Jr., who was born May 17 at Alta Bates Hospital. There was a large baptismal celebration including relatives from Whittier, Orange, San Francisco, Berkeley and Arizona. The Walter Corvello family of Albany also attended. Joyce says they lived in Albany 3 1/2 years and left many dear friends behind when they had to move.

MANY FROM ALBANY attended the Silverado Concours d'Elegance in Napa Sunday. In addition to being the official photographer for the show, I wound up taking pictures for Robin Orr of the Oakland Tribune. It was a wild experience with wild and wilder estimates of attendance, which may have been as many as 9,000 people. Have a new appreciation for those beautiful old cars, a sun-burned nose and what may become a permanently sagging shoulder, but I'll go again and again. The hard-working men in charge were marvelous to work with and thrilled to pieces to have proceeds go to Children's hospital in Oakland.

OLD CHARLIE, our dog who still jumps six foot fences every spring to spread joy among the female dog population, has suddenly doubled in value. The former $2.50 license is now $5 unless you present a certificate stating your dog has been spayed or neutered. He's too old... we'll pay. One of these years he'll decide he'd rather lie in the sun and snap at flies.

HOPE BAND DAY in the Park Sunday was a smashing success. Proceeds to be used by Senior Parents to help defray costs of the All Night Party June 14 after graduation. Yes, we have one of those too. Nance (formerly Nancy) graduates this year. Stop the world. I want to catch my breath!

60th Anniversary Fete

Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Ribone of 1356 Marin Ave. celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on May 4.

A dinner party given by the couple's daughter and son-in-law, was held at the Fratellanza Club in Oakland.

The Albany couple were married in Detroit, Michigan, in 1914. Both are natives of Italy. They have been residents of the Bay Area for 29 years and raised one daughter, Mrs. Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ribone's grandchild, Mrs. Ronald Verner and their great grandchildren, Shawn and Sheehan Verner attended the gathering.

Any car will be the better for a cooling system washed clear of impurities.

With almost everything either in short supply or higher priced, Americans are finding ways to get more from the resources they use.

This type of thinking can easily be applied to the task of feeding one's family a well-balanced diet, says Rita Ruff, USDA extension home economist based in Milwaukee, Wis. Food budgets can often be stretched either by substituting one kind of food for another or by using food products more efficiently, she says.

"In the wake of rising food prices, many consumers are taking a close look at vegetable products to supplement the vitamins, minerals, and particularly, protein from meat and meat products," says Rita Ruff. "And with careful menu planning, they can indeed utilize vegetable nutrients as an alternative or supplement to meat."

When we refer to protein in the human diet, Miss Ruff continues, we are talking about amino acids, which are required to build, maintain and repair healthy tissues and to meet other body needs. These amino acids are contained in protein. Many of the proteins in meat and animal products contain all the amino acids the human body requires, so menu planning with these products is relatively simple.

"However," she notes, "other proteins contain only some of the essential amino acids. Vegetables usually contain these 'incomplete' forms of protein."

"It is indeed possible to combine several vegetable products in one meal which bring together all the necessary amino acids that meat normally contains," she points out, "by applying adequate knowledge and some discretion. Combining vegetables with at least one animal product such as fish, eggs, cheese, or milk makes the task easier. Extension offices throughout the country can offer guidance in selecting vegetables."

Different kinds of vegetables also vary in the type of vitamins and other nutrients they contain, Miss Ruff adds. Again, some knowledge is essential in order for the consumer to choose the right combination of vegetable products for a balanced menu.

Besides actually replacing meat products with vegetables, consumers can stretch their food dollar by using vegetables more wisely, Miss Ruff adds. One easy step to increase efficiency in the kitchen is simply to handle and prepare vegetables properly. This prevents loss of vitamins and nutrients which often occurs before the food reaches the table.

Also, the home economist says, a family menu planner needs to know where vitamins and nutrients are concentrated within the vegetable, for example whether they are found mainly within the stems or the leaves of a given item. This will provide guidance for trimming and serving the vegetable so that nutrients are retained.

One of the simplest — but often neglected — ways to encourage a family, particularly children, to eat more vegetables is to serve them in ways attractive to both the eye and the palate, Miss Ruff concludes. Developing a special knowledge of your family's taste and investing a little time to learn different and tempting recipes will enable the consumer to get more of the benefits from the vegetables she serves and to serve them more often.

OPEN DOOR TO COTTAGE CHEESE

Versatile cottage cheese combines readily with fruits, vegetables, meats, poultry and fish—and adds a bonus of its own. It's a highly nutritious food containing such important nutrients as calcium, riboflavin, thiamine, and phosphorus. One-half cup of cottage cheese will provide you with about 30 per cent of your daily protein requirement. Home economists at Meadow Gold Dairies suggest adding cottage cheese to your favorite meat loaf mixture (about one cup cottage cheese and one-half cup rolled oats or bread crumbs to each pound of meat). For a colorful fruit salad, lightly toss diced fresh fruits first with lemon juice and then with cottage cheese blended with a little sour cream. (Photo courtesy Meadow Gold Dairies)

Here is an important reminder for senior citizens. It is now time to file for property tax refunds. If you need assistance in doing this phone Mrs. Beulah Bellington at Albany Senior Center

Communications And The Catholic Bishops

The Catholic Bishops of the United States will be meeting at the end of this month to discuss "communications". Their deliberations could affect a wide range of organizations and religious groups in addition to those who embrace the Roman Catholic faith.

The official topic of the Bishops' agenda ("The Use of Modern Means of Communications as Instruments for Evangelization") is cloaked in that church jargon that leaves the average soul deep in the dark as to what is going on. In point of fact, however, the Catholic hierarchy has recognized that a modern day communications capability is essential if the Church is to fulfill its mission of "spreading the good news of Jesus Christ."

It is to the Bishops' credit, with an array of formidable problems facing them, they've given clear signal that "communications" is a priority. Virtually all church media agencies have been notoriously underfunded and understaffed in the past. The National Radio/TV and Film Office for the United States Catholic Conference for example has a twelve month budget which approximates the cost of a single minute of airtime on the Super Bowl telecast. While the Lutherans have poured substantial monies into their time-honored "Lutheran Hour", the organized religious denominations have not, generally, assigned importance and appropriate budgets to media involvement.

On the other hand, some striking successes have been scored by individual evangelists. Names like Billy Graham, Rex Humbard, Oral Roberts are familiar to most of us. By mixing the Almighty with Show Biz their professionally produced radio and television programs have attracted large audiences recently. Their offerings are packed with entertainment values as they direct attention to things spiritual. Importantly, these programs have realized substantial contributions for more of the same from viewers and listeners.

The Evangelicals represent an important force in religious broadcasting for they have a capability to purchase airtime for their increasingly sophisticated programming. In the past, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish representatives shared free Sunday morning airtime on a basis roughly equivalent to their representation in the community. But the traditional confidence that networks and/or local stations will continue to operate on the "tri-faith" basis is shaky these days. Adding to the competitiveness of this situation, the variety of minority voices being raised in the community are clamoring for access to the airwaves to voice their own points of view.

The Catholic Church, along with the others, can no longer take it for granted that they will automatically have even Sunday airtime. It's of interest to note that the religious "presence" wasn't always in broadcasting's "Sunday ghetto" or in purchased airtime.

Twenty years ago Bishop Fulton Sheen was a prime time television star, with a commercial sponsor, successfully battling for viewer attention against the antics of comedian Milton Berle. Surely times have changed since the heyday of "Uncle Fultie" vs. "Uncle Miltie". An era of reverence and isolation has given away to the pressing, digging tactics of newsmen while the public probes the strengths and weaknesses of the institutional church. Still one wonders if the legendary Sheen, magnetic to this day in prime time "guest shots" and TV talk shows, may not have a larger role to play. Now more than ever there is need for charismatic church spokesmen.

What is the first priority for the Bishops when they meet? It is to emphasize ecumenical communications cooperation among various religious denominations? Now that the signal patterns of TV stations have made almost meaningless geographical boundaries that separate one ecclesiastical jurisdiction from another, should an "electronic diocese" be established and staffed accordingly?

Should the very first step be to bring a personal communications competence to the local parish priests who deliver those eminently forgettable sermons 52 weeks of the year?

The pressures of the Bishops are mind-boggling. Industry executives, aware of the potential of the media and sensitive to the present capabilities of the Church, press for selection of a capable communications officer in each local diocese. If he is a priest, they say, make communications a fulltime job for him — not just one of several simultaneous assignments. Give him a budget. Make him part of the decision-making process, not an errand boy after the fact. "Get to know the editors of the newspapers personally," Bishop — the professionals say. "Meet with them frequently so that they understand your positions on the urgent issues of the day. That's the important thing!"

These points and others will doubtlessly be discussed. To this observer, however, it seems that the Bishops are seeking a higher purpose — one that goes beyond the narrow focus of specific media considerations. The Bishops are experiencing an attitudinal change — they could well be looking for a whole new relationship with the media and the general public. They recognize that there can be no true communication in the future without dialogue. It is here that the great opportunity presents itself. By evidencing a fresh and open attitude towards the whole process of communications, and by seeking the counsel and cooperation of the men and women of the media, the Catholic Bishops in the United States can bring a tremendous and positive commitment to the service of the American people, and indeed to people everywhere.

This is the great promise. Charles E. Reilly, Jr. organized and developed the first National Catholic Office for Radio and Television for the U. S. Bishops. For six years he was Secretary of the Catholic Communications Foundation. He is now an executive with the J. Walter Thompson Company in New York City.

Legion Baseball

Starts New Season

This season marks the 49th consecutive year that The American Legion has provided competition for the teen-age boys of America. It is the only amateur baseball program that uses the players that started in the initial game of the season on through the progression of District, State, Regional and World Series.

No team is allowed to drop certain players and sign new players to increase their strength through the various stages of play.

Oakland teams have won four National Championships since the inception of American Legion Baseball. In 1928 Oakland Post 5 won, and in 1949, 1950 and in 1966 Capt. Bill Erwin 337 came home with the honorary. The quality of school age baseball players developed in this area. At two-thirds of Major League players were members of American Legion baseball.

Local fans are thrilled George Powles is coming to again coach the Bill Erwin team. He has been out of the ball for almost twenty years and is greatly pleased to be back in the program again.

Powles is credited with developing more big league players than any other individual. His many years at McKinley High School, Busby Skyline High School and ball includes the names of ens of star players in major leagues.

U.S. Gold Holdings Held Inadequate

Harriman, N.Y.—(HK)—"A massive increase in the price of gold is one way to restore the convertibility of the dollar," a leading Swiss banker said.

Dr. Hans J. Mast, senior vice president and economic advisor of the Swiss Credit Bank in Zurich, told the 1973 Executive Program for International Managers sponsored by Columbia University's Graduate School of Business that "America's present gold holdings of 13 billion dollars are totally inadequate if the dollar is to be made convertible once again."

Mast also recommended the creation of new reserve units, such as the Special Drawing Rights, in sufficient quantity so that the dollar could be made convertible into this medium and the consolidation of outstanding liquid dollar assets held abroad.

"It is an inescapable fact that any international monetary reform which is to have some hope of durability will include gold," he warned. "This can no longer be accomplished without increasing the official gold price."

Mast noted that the most recent meeting of the International Monetary Fund "has left the world in the same economic disorder that it has been experiencing for the past two years."

Patent Recipe

"The old Breton Woods system," he continued, "based on fixed monetary parities, remains formally in force but in practice it has ceased to function. And, it is rather surprising the patent recipe of floating exchange rates has once again been hauled out of the economist's stockroom despite the fact that, in contrast to fixed parities, the world's experience with such a system has been uniformly bad."
